

Go Green Expo Set for March 19 – 21

Once again, Habitat for Humanity – New York City is a proud sponsor of New York’s premier eco-friendly event, the Go Green Expo. Habitat-NYC incorporates green materials and practices into building our homes, which is especially important for low-income New Yorkers. Building green ensures healthy, energy-conserving and money-saving homes for our family partner/homeowners and helps save the environment.

This year, Go Green Expo is expected to be the best show yet. Co-located with the Architectural Digest Home Design Show, Go Green Expo will be at Pier 92, 12th Ave. and W. 55th St., on March 19 - 21. Eco-friendly companies will showcase more than 200 exhibits and display services and products that are making the world a cleaner and greener place.

From health, beauty and eco-fashion to green-building, home design and green-business products, Go Green Expo will educate New Yorkers on leading a clean, healthy and low-carbon lifestyle, whether they are avid conservationists or average consumers.

Engaging speaker panels will be led by eco-celebrities like Ed Begley Jr., Mariel Hemingway, Robin Wilson and many more. Topics range include Greening your Business, Eco Entrepreneurs, Greening Your Home and Sustainable Design, State of our Environment, Environmental Conservation, Natural Parenting, Healthy Eating and Natural Wellness.

For more information, please visit www.gogreenexpo.com